There are light weight metal water bottles yet they are not that affordable and hasn't reached to every section of the society.	I would need some research and development with understanding of chemical compositions that would effectively store the water at it's apt temperature	0	This would help to reduce and eliminate the plastic wastes to a very large extent ,one of the critical threats to the mankind as well as the ocean and marine life.	Yes.It would be mainly on the efforts and material costs.

Customers can browse and purchase t-shirts featuring these designs, and a percentage of each sale is paid to the artist or designer as royalty. The store could also offer a platform for artists and designers to submit their designs for consideration and allow customers to vote on which designs should be produced and sold on the site. This creates a win-win situation for the store and the designers, as the store gets a steady stream of fresh and unique designs to sell while the designers earn money from their work. To take this idea further, the online t-shirt store could also offer a customization feature where customers can personalize a t-shirt with their text or image. This would add an extra layer of uniqueness and appeal to the store and could also be a great way to attract customers looking for something truly one-of-a-kind. Additionally, the store could explore different ways to engage and interact with customers, such as hosting design contests, offering discounts for customers who share the store on social media, or creating a referral program where customers can earn discounts for referring friends and family to the store.	scaling out my project	1-2	it's help to generate jobs and nation will get tax too.
